MOOSILAUKE FREE PUBLIC LIBRARY.

At the March town meeting in 1907, the town voted to raise $1,000.00 to be expended at the discretion of the trustees to provide better accommodations for the library.

As the amount appropriated was too small to purchase a lot and erect a suitable building for a library, and there could not be found a suitable room for the purpose, nothing was done along that line. The next year, however, the town voted to build a high school building at North Woodstock and after conferring with the School Board and consulting several of the voters and heavy tax payers it seemed best to put the $1,000.00 raised for library purposes into the high school building and have a room finished in that building for a library room, which was done.

In April, 1909, the library trustees moved the books belonging to the library that had been kept for a number of years at the Russell House at North Woodstock, and at C. C. Griffin's at Woodstock, into the new library room. W. L. E. Hunt was appointed librarian, furniture provided, the books (that had not been lost) arranged on the shelves and in June the library was opened to the public.

Many of the books purchased when the library was organized are worn out, and some through carelessness have been lost, and those loaned by the W. L. S. have been withdrawn. There have been added by purchase and gifts since June 344 volumes. Mrs. J. R. Elliott gave two books, Dr. W. C. Hanson two books, and F. A. Fox one.

There has been loaned 1325 books to 145 patrons since June.

Amount received in fines,	$ 1 56
Due from F. A. Fox for two bookcases,	20 00

REPORT OF SCHOOL BOARD.

At the adjourned meeting held at North Woodstock in May it was voted to start a High school. The School Board was authorized to hire the money required to meet the expense of finishing rooms and maintaining a High school. We labored as well as we knew and have a High school on the approved list.

The much needed building at the Tannery was ready for occupancy in October and is greatly appreciated by teacher and pupils.

For several years there has been a call for a school at Lost River. This fall the people living there volunteered to furnish room, fuel and teacher's board if the town would furnish text books and teacher's salary. We decided to accept these terms and established a school in the Lost River district.

Some repairs have been made at the Center school building but conditions there demand more room. While it is true that in the "good old days" a greater number were housed and schooled in this same building, yet, the fact remains that we are living in the present age and dispensation and the demand is "more room."

The town of Woodstock deserves much credit for the progressive spirit it has shown and the liberal amount of money it contributes for the support of its schools.

REPORT OF SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS.

To School Committee, Town of Woodstock :

I herewith submit my second annual report. Some of the tables refer to the school year ending in June.

The record of the past year regarding school matters in Woodstock is one of progress in every way. It was inevitable owing to the condition of class-room affairs, especially equipment, which had evidently prevailed for several years. One of the state officials, who recently inspected the schools in town, commented on the appearance of class-room work at North Woodstock and the Tannery as being a system of three room graded, and a rural school, second to none in the state.

Class-room work. My efforts have largely been confined to class-room studies and management. All schools are following work along a graded course of study on an eight grade basis. One idea has been to make this as flexible as possible, yet keeping classes organized for the best interest of the greatest number. Where three, or possibly four grades, are allotted to one teacher, the plan is unwise, and, where this is the case, I hope to have the school on a four grade basis, this lessening the number of recitations and giving more time for each, doing away with a tendency to have so many classes, especially of only one pupil, and giving greater freedom for older pupils in the selection of work. Promotions will be only after examination by superintendent or board and may take place at any time when the class is ready.

Regarding the studies, nothing experimental has been attempted. We leave that for larger places and older men in supervision. Every general idea I have caused to be used in the schools has been tried and proved good for fifteen years in some of the best schools in the country. We do not aim to make phenomenal scholars out of the pupils, but do aim to give them as solid a foundation as possible in the subjects that have been in the school room for generations, with the addition of subjects demanded by the times and the knowledge of which will certainly not be a detriment to the children.

The class work is looked after by inspection, reports and tests, all with the idea of enhancing the efficiency in the every day work, and such records and data as are for the interest of the schools are kept on file. A little departmental work has been carried on at North Woodstock, one teacher having all the text-book work in Geography. The results have been satisfactory. The details of the work should be seen in the schools, as space will not permit of any extended account of the same here.

Equipment. The funds for supplies and books have been carefully expended to provide new texts for worn out books and to accommodate the increasing number of pupils. The increase of readers has been the chief objective point, and where each class had one reader for the year, we now have nearly enough to supply most classes with three. This has a tendency to broaden the interest in good literature by having more in the schools. This part of the work is but begun, and many more new books are needed both to add to the variety and to replace worn out texts. A new series of grammars has been partly installed, and all texts are nearly uniform in the town. At least two wall maps are needed for each building, and a beginning should be made on reference books and special desk books for teachers. As the expense of fitting up the high school has added to the usual expenditure, nothing has been done along this line.

The greatest addition to the equipment has been the opening of the new buildings at North Woodstock and Tannery, and the partial renovation of the interior at the village. Conditions in these places are very well known. The condition at North Woodstock last spring when there were nineteen pupils in the Intermediate and fifty-five in the Primary rooms, was remedied last Fall by giving the Primary two grades and the other rooms three, whereby the numbers, according to the last report, range from twenty-eight to thirty-two pupils. The Tannery now has fourteen pupils enrolled and comfortably housed.

To relieve the pressure at North Woodstock Intermediate and Primary and to better accommodate the children at Lost River lumber camp, a room was equipped in a camp and ten pupils have been enrolled. The attendance for the Fall term was perfect. The men at the camp have done well in their part for maintaining the school.

The most pressing need for equipment is at the Village where the present structure is entirely inadequate and out of keeping with what is furnished at the other parts of the town. Different accommodations are as imperative here as they were at North Woodstock and the Tannery. An additional room added to a complete renovation of the present building, if an entirely new structure is impossible, is what should be. The present room is large enough for about thirty pupils, the maximum number with which one teacher may accomplish the best work. A study of Table D and the Table for Last Winter, Spring and Fall terms shows the number of pupils here and how the Village compares with North Woodstock conditions, where an additional room was provided. At the Village last Fall term 48 pupils registered, eight of the youngest were turned away and eight were sent to North Woodstock. These 64 pupils—more than were ever enrolled at one room in North Woodstock—would all attend the Village school were there rooms to accommodate them and would require seven grades. The same conditions will prevail next fall as the eight going by train will not be in High School for two years at the earliest, and the eight younger ones cannot hardly be turned away again. The economical side should be considered. Over $100.00 is required for train transportation, and these pupils get only four and one half hours in school, on account of the train schedules, where the school day is regularly six hours. Trains are often late, thus making the average less than four and one-half hours, and it is not the best plan for such young people to depend on the train service as I have several times warned pupils about what I have seen of their conduct around the moving trains. Campton with a total of 50 pupils and Rumney with 46, in the villages, provides two rooms with four grades each. This matter of two rooms for next Fall term should receive the serious and favorable consideration of the voters at the next school meeting.

High School. The High School under the direction of the principal, Miss Alfreda Emerson, has been approved by the State Superintendent as a fourth grade school—that is for schools maintaining one year of approved work. Fourteen pupils were enrolled and eleven are attending at present, doing work in three courses, and providing thirty-six recitations per week for the teacher, forty being the maximum allowed for approved schools. The outlook is for an entering class of ten or more next Fall term. The efforts will be to make it an approved third class school—one having two years of approved work. The courses cannot be announced at present as the board must decide certain important measures regarding work for another year, of which due notice will be given.

Attendance. A glance at the new laws enacted at the last session of the General Court will show that every day a pupil is absent means a direct financial loss to the town, to say nothing of the loss to the pupil and consequent tendency to delay the class-work while he is receiving the benefit of a delayed explanation. Tardiness affects the school system in much the same way. Parents can do much to help matters by causing children to be prompt and regular at school. I trust the interest and home influence so essential to the success of the public schools will be sufficient to place our per cent. of attendance above the state average next year.

In conclusion, I wish to express my appreciation of the cordial co-operation with me of the board and teachers.

Respectfully submitted,

EUGENE TUTTLE,

Superintendent of Schools.
